General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the last candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the first.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme – not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification/indicative content will not be exhaustive.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, a senior examiner must be consulted before a mark is given.
- Crossed out work should be marked unless the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

Specific Marking Guidance

When deciding how to reward an answer, examiners should consult both the indicative content and the associated marking grid(s). When using a levels-based mark scheme, the 'best fit' approach should be used.

- Examiners should first decide which descriptor most closely matches the answer and place it in that level.
- The mark awarded within the level will be decided based on the quality of the answer and will be modified according to how securely all bullet points are displayed at that level.
- Indicative content is exactly that – they are factual points that candidates are likely to use to construct their answer.
- It is possible for an answer to be constructed without mentioning some or all of these points, as long as they provide alternative responses to the indicative content that fulfils the requirements of the question. It is the examiner's responsibility to apply their professional judgement to the candidate's response in determining if the answer fulfils the requirements of the question.

SECTION A: Reading

Text One

Question Number	AO1 Read and understand a variety of texts, selecting and interpreting information, ideas and perspectives.	Mark
1	One mark for any one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an unchanging landscape • a small village • cluster of mud huts • a few traders' stalls • the Cabule River • ramshackle buildings • the metal planking of/the ancient iron bridge • the river was four hundred yards wide 	(1)

Question Number	AO1 Read and understand a variety of texts, selecting and interpreting information, ideas and perspectives.	Mark
2	One mark for any one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the (five-storey) department store • the (mosaic-walled) national bank • the (white) cathedral • 1960s concrete Department of Mines • the police station • the police barracks 	(1)

Question Number	Answer	Mark
3	Reward responses that demonstrate how the narrator describes the journey. Responses may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the initial paragraph sets the scene: 'settled down for the long drive into town' • the use of positive language that gives a sense of a holiday: 'rather enjoyed', 'relished', 'buoyant end-of-term' • the simile 'like crossing a border' emphasises how different the narrator feels, which is further emphasised by 'a frontier between two states of mind' • the description of the surroundings 'dry scrubland', 'patchy forest', suggests it is uninteresting • the listing of the tasks to be accomplished suggests how busy she will be: 'tiring round', 'visits to the bank and department store and the various merchants' • the use of 'unchanging landscape' suggests that it might be boring • however, the description of the villages she passes through sounds more attractive: 'thatched with palm fronds', 'selling fruit and vegetables, sweetmeats and cola nuts' • there is a sense of danger: 'warned not to attempt it after dark', 'Brigands and bandits', 'highway robbery' • the initial description of the town: 'deep ditches', 'empty shops', which sounds unattractive • the description of the noises: 'music bellowed', 'fists pressed on their horns', 'Children knocked' • the listing of what the children are selling suggests how many of them there are • the simile 'as unconcernedly as newspapers' suggests how common and casual the carrying of weapons is for the soldiers • the contrast between the old men 'sat on their benches' and the young men 'stamping their feet' • the description of the Ping-Pong game: 'stylish', 'hoarse cries of bravado', 'ruthlessly smashed' • the use of listing of the buildings in the town centre, which suggests how developed and crowded with buildings it is • the simile 'like the droppings' suggests a not very respectful attitude to the police • the charming description of the effect of the setting sun 'bathed everything with a gentle peachy light' contrasts with the previous description of the town • the description of the airport: 'too large' and the 'sprawling modern' hotel suggest it is over-ambitious which is further supported by 'all it boasted'. 	(10)
